Privacy Policy

Last updated: November 16, 2026

This Privacy Policy explains how AdCombinator (“we,” “us,” or “our”) handles personal information when you use our website and services.

1. Information we collect

We collect information needed to provide and maintain the service, including:

- Account information: information supplied through Google sign-in, such as your email address, name, profile image, and account identifier. We do not receive your Google password.
- Content and generation information: text, files, customization choices, generated videos, and generation history.
- Transaction information: token purchases, balances, usage, and payment records, including blockchain transaction identifiers where applicable.
- Technical and support information: IP address, browser and device information, service logs, and messages you send us.

2. How we use information

We use this information to authenticate users, operate accounts, generate and deliver videos, manage tokens and transactions, provide support, prevent fraud, maintain security, and meet legal obligations.

Where applicable, we process information to perform our agreement with you, pursue legitimate interests in operating and protecting the service, comply with legal requirements, or act on your consent.

3. Sharing and external services

We share information with service providers only as needed to operate AdCombinator, such as hosting, authentication, and payment providers. We may also disclose information when required by law or reasonably necessary to protect users, the service, or legal rights.

We do not sell your personal information. External services, including Google and payment providers, handle information under their own privacy policies. Blockchain transactions are recorded publicly and generally cannot be altered or deleted.

4. Cookies and storage

We use cookies or similar technologies necessary for sign-in, session management, security, and essential service functionality. If we introduce optional analytics or advertising technologies that require consent, we will request it before using them.

5. Retention and security

We retain information only as long as reasonably needed to provide the service, maintain relevant records, resolve disputes, and meet legal obligations. Generated content is not guaranteed to be stored indefinitely; download copies you wish to keep.

We use reasonable technical and organizational safeguards to protect information, although no system can guarantee absolute security. Information may be processed in countries other than your own, with safeguards where required by applicable law.

6. Your choices and rights

Depending on your location, you may have rights to access, correct, delete, or receive a copy of your information, or to restrict or object to certain processing. Where processing relies on consent, you may withdraw it.

To exercise these rights or request account deletion, contact support@adcombinator.co. We may need to verify your identity. Some records may be retained where legally required. You may also have the right to complain to your local data protection authority.

7. Age limits and updates

AdCombinator is intended for users aged 18 and over. If you believe a minor has provided personal information, please contact us.

We may update this Policy and will communicate material changes through the service or another appropriate channel.

8. Contact

For privacy questions or requests, contact support@adcombinator.co.